WAR AT A GLANCE

Heavy artillery duels were reported from the Picardy battle front today, but neither the British war office nor the French war office made any mention of infantry operations in that zone.

The activity of the big guns apparently centered between Avre and Oise rivers, where the French were unofficially reported on Tuesday to have advanced their lines, putting the entire left flank of the Germans in peril.

French troops moved closer to Lassigny and Roye over a wide front, taking high ground which has shaken the whole German front in that district.

The Germans commenced the evacuation of their trench positions in the Oise valley, giving up much ground that they gained in their drive towards Compiegne in June.

Futher progress for the French west of the Oise river has been made much easier by the capture of high ground which affords a screen for artillery that can now deluge the German key positions at will.

While the British, French and Americans consolidate their newly won positions and move up their guns and ammunition, the Germans are nightly preparing for a further retreat. Large fires are observed far in the German rear and they are apparently devastating the country just as they did before the final phase of their retreat from the Marne.

German artillery has developed great activity on the front, where there has been considerable of a flare-up of local fighting lately.

The shelling continued in the sector of the Franco-Belgian sector near Dykmude and Kemmel. It is possible that the Germans may be trying to open the way for an infantry diversion in that district, although it is known that Prince Rupprecht's army has been weakened by the release of reserves for service north of the Marne and in Picardy.

RUSSIAN FACTIONS IN GREAT BATTLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Aug. 14.—A battle in which a soviet army (Bolsheviki) of 150,000 men are engaged is raging on the Mid Volga river, around Sembirsk, said a dispatch from Moscow today.

The Volga fleet controlled by the Soviets has seized all the vessels of the Czecho-Slovaks.

GERMANS SHELL OUR VESLE FRONT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army on the Aisne-Vesle Front, Aug. 13 (8 p. m.)—German artillery has been extremely active against the American bridgehead position north of the Vesle river, during the past 24 hours.

The Prussian guard division facing the Americans has not been transferred from the Vesle front despite the activities in the Montdidier region.

Aerial observers report that the enemy is establishing barbed wire entanglements and organizing strong and elaborate defensive positions.

German batteries emplaced north of the Aisne river are now registering the new American positions.

Despite violent fire from German guns, American airmen have succeeded in making numerous photographs of the enemy's positions. Their fighting planes tried unsuccessfully to drive Americans away. One American two-seater machine shot down two German single-seaters. A Krupp howitzer, which an American unit captured at Trugoy on July 22, was today shipped to Gov. McCall of Massachusetts. It was the biggest gun the Americans had so far captured. Many six inchers had been captured in the offensive.

This artillery is still being used against the Germans, the Americans firing the ammunition that they captured in their sweep northward from the Marne.

Nine thousand rounds have been fired against the Germans from one three inch piece that was taken from the Teutons.

TAXPAYERS LED GAS RATE ATTACK

Company Wants City Fathers to Allow it to Boost Gas 30 Cents—Decided Objection Met and Hearing Adjourned to Next Tuesday.

There was such decided objection made Tuesday evening at the public hearing on the request made by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company to the common council asking the aldermen to allow it to increase its rate from $1.15 to $1.45 per 1,000 cubic feet, that the session gave indications of not closing before midnight until Alderman Schilp moved that the hearing be adjourned until next Tuesday evening, which was adopted by a vote of 5 to 4.

Alderman at Large Watts presided at the session with Aldermen Preston, Schick, Schilp, Kelly, Kullmann, Higgins, and Hull present.

The absentees were Aldermen Kirchner, Powell Connelly and Purvis.

City Clerk Doremus reported that Alderman Kirchner had sprained his back, which was the reason why he was unable to be present.

$5 For Marshal's Expenses.

Before the gas question was taken up the committee on laws and rules, to whom had been referred the petition of City Judge Schirick that City Marshal Rice be granted $5 a week for expenses, reported in favor of it, provided the city marshal at the end of each month present an itemized and certified bill. The report was adopted, and a resolution covering the question was offered by Alderman Mann and passed by the council.

The Gas Question.

It was about 8:30 o'clock before the council went into session and there was a large attendance of interested citizens present as well as a number of the gas company employes. The company had literature which was distributed.

The Company's Petition.

City Clerk Doremus read for the information of those present the petition presented by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company. In brief it set forth that for the past five months they had been manufacturing gas at a loss and asked that the common council grant it permission ot increase the gas rate from $1.15 to $1.45 per 1,000 cubic feet before the company took the matter up with the public service commission.

R. E. Leighton Writes.

R. E. Leighton of the Universal Road Machinery Company wrote that be believed the public service commission fully capable of passing upon the question and he felt that the application of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company should be granted.

Others Protest.

A protest from Harold L. Van Deusen was read in which the writer styled himself as a small consumer and called attention to the fact that according to the company's advertisement the increase would only mean an additional 2 cents a day for the consumer to pay which meant that each consumer would have to pay $7.30 a year more and as there was 4,000 consumers in the city that would net the gas company an increased revenue of at least $30,000 which the writer said was "a tidy sum even in war times." He did not believe that the common council should grant the company's request to increase the rate 30 cents and asked that the request to do so be denied.

The Kingston Taxpayers' Association sent in a protest and called attention to a resolution they had adopted at the last meeting protesting against the common council granting the request of the gas company.

Attorney Auchmoody Protests.

On the motion of Alderman Schick the meeting was thrown open for discussion on the part of any citizen who cared to say anything about the matter.

Attorney Milton O. Auchmoody was the first speaker of the evening in opposition of the request of the gas company. He said that while the gas company may have the right to go before the public service commission, it seemed to him that before the common council took any action in the matter the gas company should furnish the aldermen with more proof than just a petition. "If they have not the proof with them we would like to hear it."

Attorney Merritt Speaks.

Attorney Francis C. Merritt of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association was the next speaker in opposition. He said that it was not fair to base figures of expenses on the months that were the most expensive in the year. He said that in the summer months the gas company was not put to the expense of tearing up frozen streets to repair service pipes and that the figures given the aldermen should be based on the expense of manufacturing gas in the summer months. He said that be knew labor was high and coal was high, but he was not aware that water was more expensive or scarce or air harder to get. He said that Kingston had one of the highest gas rates in the state.

"Why? Because of superior quality? Ask the people of other cities."

He said that the common council should not consent to any such petition. Gas can be furnished to Kingston or it should be furnished at a minimum cost. He did not see why just because it was war times that the general public should bear all the burden of increased expenses and cor-

MEN 21 AUG. 24 MUST REGISTER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug 14.—All men who shall have reached the age of 21 years between June 5 and August 24 were called upon today in a proclamation by President Wilson to register for the draft on the latter date.

The hours of registration will be from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. at all local boards.

The object of registering 21 year old men for this period of two months and twenty days, is to keep class one full during the fall months, it was explained by General Crowder.

It is expected that approximately 150,000 men will be registered on August 24, and of this number at least half will qualify for military duty.

The same method of registering the men will be followed as that prevailing when the first registration of 21 years old men took place on June 5 last. A day for registration in the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico will be named in a later proclamation. As required by the regulations every local board having jurisdiction in a city of 30,000 population or over, will promptly cause the mayor thereof to be notified of place or places designated for registration, while every local board having jurisdiction in a county or similar unit will cause the clerk thereof to be similarly notified.

Any person who, on account of sickness, will be unable to present himself for registration may apply on or before the day of registration at the office of any local board for instructions as to how he may register by agent.

THRESHING OUT NEW REVENUE BILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo went to the capitol today to thresh out his difficulties with Chairman Kitchin, and the ways and means committee, over the method of levying taxes on business profits in the new revenue bill.

He carried with him various data prepared by the treasury experts showing what would be the comparative returns under the McAdoo and Kitchin plans of taxation as applied to 1,000 American corporations selected at random. The calculations were understood to show that the return under the McAdoo plan would be several hundred million dollars in excess of Kitchin returns.

Indications were that McAdoo's scheme may finally be adopted by the committee, although its members had previously been inclined to oppose it. The treasury figures showing how each plan would work in practice will have a decided weight in the final decision.

McAdoo unhesitatingly asserted that the excess profits taxes adopted by the committee, running from 25 to 80 per cent, are unwise. He held out for the tax scale as fixed in the present law, from 10 to 60 per cent, insisting that to levy higher taxes would do injury to all but the largest corporations. He insisted, however, that there must be an alternative war profits tax of 80 per cent and that the equalization board already provided by the committee should have power to decide which tax shall be applied in any specific case.

Chairman Kitchin has been insisting on higher excess profits taxes and is opposed to the flat 80 per cent war profits levy. He contends that the great corporations that have made big profits both before the war and since the war started would expect heavy taxation if the pre-war profit were taken as a basis of figuring their intention.

There was some resentment against Secretary McAdoo's action in insisting on his plan for the drafting of the new revenue bill, but this was principally on the part of Kitchin's close friends and the chairman himself. When work on the revenue bill was begun Kitchin announced that "no interference from the treasury department would be tolerated."

Secretary McAdoo was heard behind locked and guarded doors with the committee men closely gathered about him at a table. Quick decision on the arguments was expected, for it has been announced that the revenue bill will be ready when the house reconvenes next Monday. All except a few miscellaneous taxes to "fill in the chinks" had been agreed upon today and there remained only the decision on the profits taxes to be reached before the bill is sent to the printer.

FIRST SHIP TO BE LAUNCHED SOON

At Plant of Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation on Island Dock—If Nothing Happens Launching Will Occur Later in Month.

Work is rapidly being rushed on ship No. 1 now nearing completion at the plant of the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation on the Island Dock, and unless something unforeseen turns up will probably be launched the latter part of this month.

The crew at work on the big ship are using every effort to have the big ship ready to take the water at that time, and are now busy putting on the side sheathing.

It is likely that appropriate ceremonies will mark the launching of the largest ship ever built in this vicinity.

Work on ships No. 2 and 3 is also being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. There are now six hundred men employed on the plant, and the Island Dock presents a busy scene with all the men at work.

SEVEN KILLED AS SUB SINKS COASTER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

An Atlantic Port, August 14—Seven lives are believed to have been lost when the American stamship Frederick R. Kellogg was sunk by a German submarine last night off the New Jersey coast.

This information was received here today with the word that thirty members of the crew of the vessel were rescued by the steamship Huron, of the Clyde line, while northward bound.

The survivors of the Kellogg were in open boats.

The ship was at first reported as having been the Henry S. Kellogg, but is now identified as the Frederick R. Kellogg, a steamer of 4,419 net tonnage and owned by the Pan American Petroleum and Transportation Company, of Los Angeles, California.

According to the survivors, the ship was sent to the bottom by a German torpedo. The attack occurred during a heavy fog.

TO CONTINUE CHILD WELFARE WORK

Remainder Of Year Votes Board of Health—Review Of Glanders Situation And Other Matters Discussed.

At a regular meeting of the board of health held Wednesday evening, Dr. F. B. Quinlan was appointed acting health officer, upon motion of Commissioner Dr. Norwood, who also made a motion, which was carried, that Dr. O. D. B. Ingalls be extended a vote of thanks for his efficient work as acting health officer.

A communication from Miss Loretta Nolan, the board's stenographer, asking for an increase in her salary, was referred to the finance committee.

The board voted to continue for the balance of the year the child welfare station in charge of Miss Ella M. Bates. In connection with this work the baby weighing will be continued under the direction of the Child Welfare Committee, of which Mrs. Thomas Edmonston is chairman.

Mrs. Gallagher, representing the Parent-Teachers' Association; Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy, Mrs. J. D. Schoonmaker and Mrs. Edmonston, representing the Women's Branch of the Ulster County Home Defense Committee, attended the meeting. Mrs. Edmonston spoke, asking the support of the board in continuing the baby weighing work. Mrs. Edmonston's address will be found in another part of this story.

Commissioner Mrs. Michael was authorized to make the necessary arrangements to have Miss Bates conduct a child welfare booth at the county fair at Ellenville.

The Glanders Epidemic.

Mayor Canfield read a report from Dr. Wills, chief veterinarian of the State Department of Agriculture, relative to the glanders epidemic in this city. The doctor stated that it would not be safe to open the public drinking fountains here for some time yet.

Three faucets will be installed, one each to the watering trough at Hurley avenue, Henry street and at the Rhinebeck ferry.

The sheds will be permitted to open under certain restrictions. All feed troughs must be boarded up and sheds must be thoroughly disinfected. Individual water pails and feed bags must be used.

Sanitary Inspector Dressel reported that ten horses had been killed, suffering with glanders, and that three were under observation.

Notice to Horse Owners.

Signs will be posted at the sheds and at many points on the roads leading into the city, with these instructions:

The disease known as glanders has been found to exist in and about Kingston. Owing to the danger of its being spread to susceptible animals the following suggestions are offered for its control:

Avoid the use of public drinking fountains and feeding troughs.

Use separate watering pails and feeding bags. Do not tie horses in sheds or stables except when mangers and walls have been cleaned and disinfected.

If animals appear unthrifty, show swellings under the jaw, along the lymphatic glands on the inner side of the hind legs or have a discharge from the nostrils, have a veterinarian examine them.

Report all suspicious symptoms to the Department of Health or other proper authority.

Not on the Program.

Commissioner McBride pulled a "stunt" that was not scheduled on the regular program. With his coat off, and smoking an imported cigar, he tipped his chair back, prepared to make himself as comfortable as possible on an oppressively hot evening.

The chair started to tip and before the commissioner could heed the shout of warning given by some of the members of the board, it was a case of "going, going, gone." With a crash, Commissioner McBride, his cigar, and the chair had a "striking" introduction to the floor. The commissioner was not injured; the chair

FRED SAHLOFF, Secretary.

Mrs. Edmonston's Address.

Gentlemen:—We have come before you tonight to enter no complaint or make any criticism, neither are we making any demand or even request nor would we worry you with much speaking on a subject you know far more about than we.

We have come because it is wartime and women are attempting things they never dreamed they could or would do and we need all the help and advice we can get. We come to have a conference with you about the president's request to the Women's Branch of National Defense that they make this second year of the war children's year, the same as England and France have done after seeing the need of safeguarding the children as far as possible from the disastrous results of war.

When the request came to the women of the city to weigh and measure the children under school age we looked about for trained experienced help and found it waiting for us in your welfare station and nurse. Both were gladly offered to us and Mondays and Thursdays were given as days for weighing and measuring. We then looked for volunteers to do publicity work and nurses to assist and found the Parent-Teachers' Association willing to help visit the families in their districts but not until school opened. We would gladly have waited, but that we understood your station was for the summer only and we wanted to finish while we had its advantage, so relying on newspaper articles we started a weighing and measuring station in the Charities Aid office and yesterday another in your office here, but the demand for trained nurses in war work made it difficult to find helpers and so we called upon a band of about 100 women who have been taking a course of home nursing and hygiene under the direction of Miss Lampman, Red Cross nurse. These women most willingly responded with their leader but they needed training in welfare work. Your welfare nurse again came to the rescue by having them a day at your station observing and helping, after which they were able to handle the weighing alone by referring the serious cases to her.

So this evening we have come to learn just how far to go in publicity work. If the rest of the follow up work must be done by volunteers we will not make as thorough a canvass of the city as we would did we know your welfare station could be depended upon.

We called upon Dr. Norwood for information and he referred us to the mayor, who in turn asked us to place the matter before you tonight.

Please remember we do not even suggest your continuing the station. We simply want to tell you it has been a help to us and before we attempt further work we would like to know how long we may depend upon it.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Thursday.

Breakfast—Sliced bananas with maple sugar and cream; pearled barley with top milk; *rolled oats muffins; coffee.

Dinner—Cold sliced veal loaf; potato puff; new cabbage; *floating island.

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

The pineapple is one of the most wholesome fruits. Not only does it give us more sugar than does other fruits, but it also contains a substance that helps digest such foods as milk and meat.

Pineapple Rings.

In individul dishes, place rings of fresh or canned pineapple, sprinkle grated cocoanut over the pineapple and serve.

Rice a'l'Italienne.

Three-fourths cup rice, 2 quarts boiling salted water, ½ onion, 3 cloves, 1½ cups tomato sauce, ½ cup grated cheese, ½ tablespoon butter.

Cook rice in boiling salted water, with butter and onion stuck with cloves; drain, remove onion, reheat in tomato sauce, add cheese.

Rolled Oat Muffins.

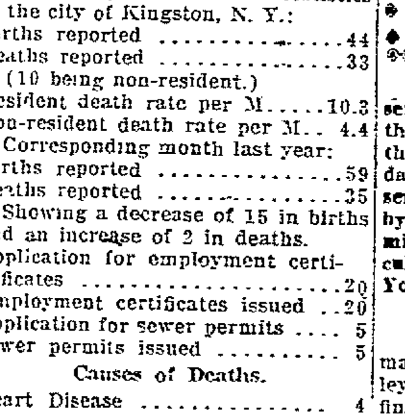
One cup milk, 1 tablespoon fat, 2 tablespoon syrup, 1 or 2 eggs, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup rice flour, 1¾ cups ground rolled oats.

Add to the cup of milk, the melted fat, syrup and slightly beaten egg; sift the salt, baking powder, and flour together. Combine the two mixtures stirring lightly, without beating. Bake in a hot oven for 20 to 30 minutes.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

The Difference.

Science is concerned with the names, distances and magnitudes of the stars, and with problems touching the intestinal parasites of the flea. Art, literature and religion are concerned only with mankind; with the elemental, the universal, the eternal; with the dream, the defeat, the romance of life.—Dallas Lore Sharp, in the Atlantic.



The Program Nowadays Is to Save!

Grape-Nuts food fits in fine with this idea. No fuel required to prepare; no sugar needed; there's no waste; and the use of barley, in its making, conserves wheat.

Grape-Nuts

Swallow's Marvelous Speed.

The connection between the flight of a bird and the flying of an airplane is obvious; yet, in spite of the wonderful results obtained by birdmen—aces of the air—nature retains the advantage over men in flying. An ordinary swallow can travel 120 miles in an hour, and there is a record of a swallow that flew from Antwerp to Compeigne, 148 miles, in 68 minutes, attaining an average speed of 128 miles an hour.

SCULLY EXPERT WITH LEWIS GUN

Wilbur Man With 310th Infantry Writes Interesting Letter About Crops, Music, Swimming and Army Life in France.

The following letter was received by Edward Scully from his brother, Corporal John Scully, now in France:

"Somewhere in the World,"
Sunday, July 20, 1918.

Dear Brothers and all:

Am taking the pleasure of writing a few lines to let you know I am well and happy. We are having some weather here now. The past week was very rainy and the roads were some muddy, but now it is warm and clear and the days are very long.

Everything remains the same here. We still do a little drilling now and then. I've been instructing on a Lewis machine gun for about a month now. After coming here I went to school for one week and passed the test. When out with these we never have to do anything else. I like it for a change and am making out fine. This gun was invented by Colonel Lewis, an American army colonel, and was brought over by the Belgian government, who now have the patents and rights to it. They own the patents and the guns are made in England and America. They are a fine weapon and have done a lot in this war. We have a class of eight men or a "squad" we instruct every day and often go on the rifle range and shoot. I've shot them many times and like them better than a rifle.

The fields are thick with grain here. It is most time to harvest it now and it sure will be no easy task. A bunch of potatoes and other vegetables are raised here. The farmers are away behind in modern machinery, yet they seem to get along and some have fine farms, dandy big cows and horses. The cows are all the same color, a reddish brown, and the horses have no tails only little bob tails. A few days ago I saw a hay cutting machine manufactured by the International Harvesting Co. It was the first American machine I saw on any farm yet. There are plenty of Fords and the British army use a bunch of them. Quite a number of American made trucks here, mostly all Peerless.

I was out on a truck recently and had the pleasure of passing through a town that was visited by Fritzy in the early days of the war. He sure did break things up, hotels, business places, stores, R. R. stations and quiet little homes, all broke up and smashed. I was talking to an English sergeant a few days ago who had just come from the front. He said you see 25 Allied aeroplanes to 1 of Fritzy's. He is on his last, I guess, and he is also getting a beating in the trenches, according to the papers. Everything is quiet here. You wouldn't know anything was going on.

We sure do have some fun over here. We go in swimming very often. The ponds are not very deep but we sure do have fun. About 50 of us go in together. The water comes from cold springs and makes a fellow feel fine after he comes out from a swim. I have written an average of three letters a week since I came here and thus far I have received seven letters from home. We get the English newspapers and find them alright. We read the baseball results and I read about Mayor Mitchel being killed and also about the submarine being off the Jersey coast. Just now as I am writing our 310th Band is playing "Lily of the Valley." It is a dandy band and a lot of people come around to hear it. It sounds good and the bunch are beginning to dance. No doubt by this time all my Wilbur pals have gone away to do their bit for Uncle Sam. How are you making out with your garden? No doubt the vegetables are nearly ready to eat now. I hope you have good luck with it and raise a bunch of things. How is May and James and Edward? I hope you are all well. Have you your motor boat running this year? Things are not so bad as what you folks imagine and for heaven's sake do not worry for me and tell ma not to worry. I often think of her for she is the one best little mother in the U. S. A., and tell her not to worry for me, as I am taking good care of myself and I am well cared for and seeing the country. So I guess I will close for this time, with love to all the Kenny family. Best regards to Alice and all the folks around Wilbur.

From your loving brother,
JOHN.

PHOENICIA.

Phoenicia, Aug. 13.—The M. E. Aid held its annual fair Thursday afternoon and evening. The booths were arranged nicely and all did well, taking the times into consideration. In the evening an entertainment, "The Gypsy Festival," was given. Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. Winchell, of the Aid were in charge, Mrs. Winchell being the pianist. A Gypsy camp had been arranged and the fancy costumes of all taking part made a very pretty stage setting. Nancy Merrihew, queen of the tribe, reigned well. Her singing as well as solos and chorus by Lizzie Neice, Harriet Loomis, Ada Warren, Beatrice Wright, Elizabeth Jenkins, Mary Van Steenburgh, Earl Smith and House Bennett were well rendered and received encores. The Gypsy Countess was nicely sung by Harriet Loomis and Alfred Kayler, the response, the Gypsy's Warning, was given by Mrs. Loomis. Recitations by Earl and Winnie Smith, Mary Van Steenbergh and Harriet Loomis were given. Somewhere a Voice is Calling was well sung by Alfred Kayler.

There's a sadness but with a happy twinge in our heart for we feel the absence of so many of our boys, but not with a mourning side, but honor. We feel we want to emphasize the honor by keeping the home fires going and getting down to the serious side of earnestness, cheer and help and not the lighter side of dance and cards and all pleasure side of life. We've been at it too long.

G. Lounsberry is in the insurance business up the line.

We miss the teen-age boys but they are making good. Henry Kaylor and Earl Sumerville are in the electric works in Schenectady. Lyman Hoyt is in Ilion and Charles Mallig in New York.

The state trooper didn't catch the thermometer loafing during the hot weather, for it just kept in the skedaddle up.

Mr. and Mrs. Mooney have moved in the J. Walton property, just off Main street.

A play will be given soon in the interest of the Red Cross. The Red Cross is doing a great deal of sewing and the Belgian Relief Department the same, turning out a great quantity of work.

Joseph Schoonmaker has been called and left last week.

The war conditions have caused a set back in the boarding business from different standpoints but all these little things and saving sugar and flour are but little things to do as it were and if we had only this part, we'd have a happy part after all. But we are willing to do more and on and on until we get a righteous peace, which means no more war. The league of nations to be full born is a glorious sunlight coming over the eastern hills. Our boys are there keeping the torch of liberty and justice burning.

The streams are very low. More stones than water up or down. The rain did much good to the gardens.

The rally day exercises are to be given September 8, unless the plans are changed.

Harry Baldwin has returned from a trip to Saugerties.

Rev. Mr. Vaughn is away on his vacation. His family accompanied him.

Strange Currency.

Porcelain money is used in Burma and Siam, and feather money, manufactured from the short red feathers from beneath the wings of a species of parrot, is the ordinary currency of the Santa Cruz Islanders.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUGUST 14, 1918

NO TEARS IN AUSTRIA.

The assertions of correspondents who undertake to speak for a whole nation are or should be discounted by reflecting readers. Yet we may well believe the report that General Ludendorff's efforts to prove that a sound thrashing was a great victory have failed. The masses of the German people, stubbornly confident in the invincibility of their arms, may still be deceived, but there is reason to credit the quotation of a Swiss correspondent from the Berlin Tageblatt stating that the Marne defeat "produced scenes of unspeakable despair" in the Kaiser's capital. The emotional German, boastfully optimistic as long as he feels secure, seems to be lacking in the fortitude which supports Englishmen and Frenchmen in the midst of adversity.

An interesting feature of the news is that, while Germans weep, many Austrians are inclined to smile. A Vienna merchant is quoted as saying that the faces of few people in Austria-Hungaria show the signs of "disappointment or regret," that several officers of high rank "did not conceal their satisfaction over the fact that German bombast had got a smack in the face," and that these officers "held that the Germans had been beaten fairly by better generalship." This attitude can be readily understood. The Austrians have no reason to love the Germans and doubtless very many of them would prefer to trust their fate after the war to the victorious Allies rather than to a victorious Germany, whose first act in the great day of triumph would probably be the annexation of Emperor Charles's country.

ONONDAGAS ON THE WAR PATH.

The Onondaga tribe of Iroquois Indians is the 24th "nation" to declare war on Germans. The Onondagas have not put on their war paint in order to make the world safe for democracy but to avenge the harsh treatment received by members of their tribe who were exhibiting in Germany when the United States entered the war, such an outrage upon the honor of a once famous warlike tribe being more than can be endured by the remnant of less than a thousand Onondagas now living in the New York county which bears their name. Americans and Germans alike may be amused on the reception of this news, but the Onondagas are quite serious: for they claim the sovereignty of a separate nation under a treaty signed by George Washington when he was President. Ever since the Onondaga tribe has considered itself an independent ally of the United States and our Government has good-humoredly acquiesced.

Two hundred years ago the Onondagas were a powerful fighting people, the acknowledged head of a great Indian confederacy. In consequence of their friendship for the English they prevented a southward extension of French power from Quebec, which would have made a difference in our colonial history and possibly cut down the present northern boundary of New York, to which State they ceded most of their territory in 1788, reserving a portion for themselves on which their remnant now remains as a nominally independent nation. The Onondagas are shorn of their ancient power but retain their ancient pride, and no doubt our Government will see to it that the strong young members of the tribe may have an opportunity to fight the Germans to their heart's content.

Being incapable of understanding anything above their own level, the Germans naturally see their own motives when they look abroad, and so Captain Boy-Ed explains our entry into the war by saying President Wilson desired "that the German empire and Austria-Hungary be defeated and Great Britain so exhausted militarily and economically and financially that the United States will become the world controlling power."

A correspondent asks if President Wilson will not hold his office, "automatically" until the war is over, no matter how long it may last. This silly question, which assumes that war temporarily abolishes our Constitution and governmental institutions, is of interest as indicating the habit of mind some of us are falling into.

And now the Socialists of Europe have been asked to create confusion worse confounded by sending representatives into Russia to decide who is right and who is wrong. As if Socialism hadn't already helped the Germans knife Russia.

That "eat-'em-up" spirit of our thusiastic and determined American fighters was unquestionably a very big factor in the combined forces that sent the Huns into hurried retreat.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"The Government is running the railroads now." "What of it?" "Those tired of reading Patent Office reports can write their Congressmen for a few time tables."—Louisville Courier Journal.

"There was a sensational case of kidnapping on our block yesterday." "You don't say so! What was it?" "The baby in the third house who generally keeps everybody awake with its yells slept all night."—Baltimore American.

Ted—"She divorced him because he was so sarcastic." Ned—"He's still inclined to be so. When he sends her alimony he makes the payments in Liberty Bonds."—Life.

An Alibi.

The police raided a gambling den recently. The names and addresses of those caught on the premises were taken and in due course they were summoned to appear in court.

"What is your trade?" the judge asked one of them.

"A locksmith," was the answer.

"What were you doing when the police entered?"

"Well, your honor," came the response, "I was just making a bolt for the door."—Exchange.

The Minister.

During a winter visit to Florida, Andrew Carnegie attended a service in a little negro church.

When the contribution plate came around, Mr. Carnegie dropped a $5 bill upon it. After the contents had been counted the clergyman arose and announced: "Brethern and sistern, the collection tonight seems to figure up, $5.44. if the $5 contributed by the man from the north is genuine, the repairs on the sanctuary will begin immediately."—Exchange.

All the Same.

Two farm hands in a leisure moment were discussing the affairs of the farm and its somewhat surly owner. "Yes," said the first, "I reckon on the horses what I've got charge of is as intelligent as any you'd find around here. Know all what I say to 'em, they do. You know the boss says that when he was a boy on this farm, they had a mule that was just like one of the family." "Dare say," retorted the other. "I know which one."—London Answers.

Badly Mixed Up.

Old Gentleman—What are you crying for, my little man?

Boy—Boo-hoo! I'm lost! I'm lost!

Old Gentleman—There, there, my boy. You musn't give up hope so soon. Where do you live?

Boy—I don't know. We moved today. Boo-hoo!

Old gentleman—Well, what's your name?

Boy—Don't know that either. M-m-mother married again today!—Passing Show.

Unskilled Supplication.

A Scotch minister was asked to pray for rain and his prayer was followed by such a downpour that the crops were injured. During the storm one old farmer said to another: "This comes o' trusting sic a request to a meenister who isna acquaint wi' agriculture."—Boston Evening Transcript.

His description of the habits and haunts of birds was especially interesting, as were his rendering of bird songs. Another feature was his account of the redwood trees of California. Mr. Kellog is trying to arouse sentiment looking to the government preserving these famous trees, some of which are twenty centuries old.

Mr. Kellog is also entertaining the men at the various cantonments. He travels in a big car, the body of which is made from a block hewed from a redwood tree. The car is equipped with all modern devices for comfort while on the road.

PUBLIC URGED TO CONSERVE MEAT

The following telegram has been received from Washington:

"Present restrictions of serving beef in public eating places only one meal each day and present program for householders purchasing 1½ pounds of beef should be discontinued, but it is urged that the American public consume medium and lighter grades of cattle, thus conserving the heavier animals for our own armed forces and those of our allies.

"The Food Administration still urges a general conservation of all meat as a measure to safeguard the future."

Food Administrator for Ulster Co.

BRAZIL LOOKING TO FUTURE

Important Industries of the Country Are to Be Encouraged by the Government.

The secretary of agriculture of Brazil recently presented a lengthy memorial to the president of the republic explaining the necessity of encouraging the coal and steel industries, which has resulted in the publication of two decrees of the federal government.

The secretary's report states that until there are at least ten coal mines in active operation in the country the effect of this industry will not be felt in the conservation of the wood supply, which is now being rapidly consumed to meet the needs of the railways and of domestic industries. The steel industry is so largely dependent upon suitable fuel that, in the secretary's opinion, it should also receive the attention of the Brazilian government. The director of the geological survey of the Brazilian government states that by a process of washing metallurgical coke may be obtained from Brazilian coal, and that this is already being accomplished in the state of Santa Catharina.

The secretary points out that the present lack of sufficient domestic coal of suitable quality should not interfere with the establishment of a steel industry, which could temporarily use wood, and that for more than 300 years Sweden was obliged to depend upon this kind of fuel. He also says that in the United States some 400,000 tons of pig iron are produced annually by the use of charcoal as a fuel.—Commerce Reports.

Orange Oils in Commerce.

Unadulterated orange oil has a strong aroma, and is used in the making of perfumes, essences, soaps and beverage flavors, as well as of cakes and confectionery. The principal use for Jamaica orange oil is in the manufacture of fancy biscuits, particularly of a wafer biscuit which is used extensively with ices and iced drinks.

The Indian Crow.

Persons who have traveled in the Orient have much that is interesting and amusing to say about the Indian crow. This canny black creature is full of pranks; he makes much trouble, but also calls forth much laughter.

AMERICANS ASKED TO LIMIT USE OF SUGAR

Must Use No More Than Two Pounds Per Person a Month if the Present Meagre Allied Sugar Ration Is Maintained.

Stocks Will Be Short Until Beginning of New Year—Ration May Be Enlarged Then.

Two pounds of sugar a month—half a pound a week—that is the sugar ration the U. S. Food Administration has asked every American to observe until January 1, 1919, in order to make sure there shall be enough for our Army and Navy, for the Allied armies and for the civilians of those nations.

By New Year's the world sugar situation will be relieved somewhat by the new crop. Cuban sugar of this year's crop will be arriving in this country.

Every available sugar source will be drawn on by the Food Administration during the next winter months to maintain sufficient stocks here to keep up our national sugar supply. During October the first American beet sugar will arrive in the markets. By the middle of November some of our Louisiana cane crop will be available. All of this sugar and more may be needed to keep this nation supplied on a reduced ration and to safeguard the Allied sugar ration from still further reduction. In Europe the present ration is already reduced to a minimum.

Our Situation.

The situation which the United States faces in its efforts to maintain a fair distribution of sugar to the Allied world is as follows:

Sugar supplies throughout the country, in homes, stores, factories and bakeries are at a low ebb. We must make increased sugar shipments to the Allies.

Production of American beet and Louisiana cane crops have been disappointing.

Porto Rico crops have been curtailed.

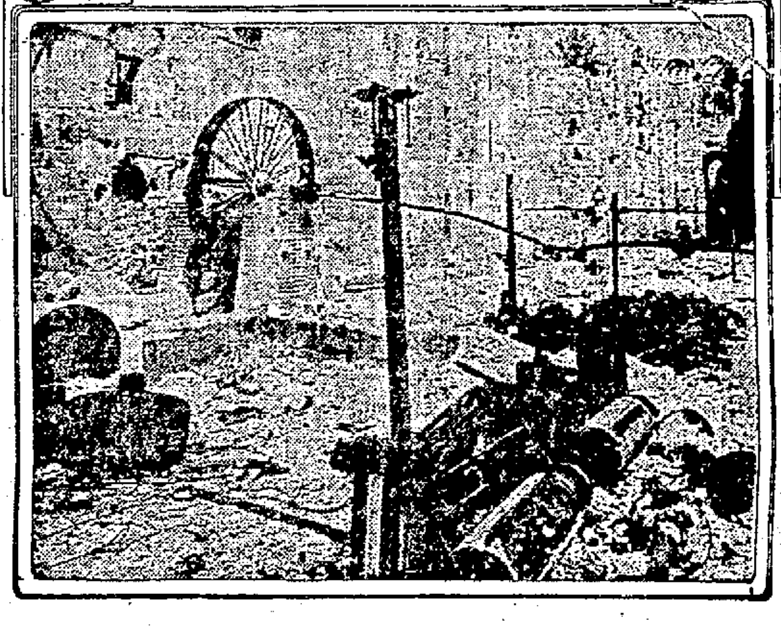
Immense sugar stocks in Java cannot be reached on account of the shipping shortage; ships are needed for troop movements and munitions.

Army and Navy sugar requirements have increased as well as those from the Allies.

Most industries using sugar have had their allotment reduced by one-half; some will receive no sugar.

Households should make every effort to preserve the fruit crop without sugar, or with small amounts of sugar. Later, when the sugar supply is larger, the canned fruit may be sweetened as it is used.

French Sugar Mills Destroyed



France must import sugar today, most of it from this side of the ocean, because the largest portion of French sugar beet land is in German hands. As a result, the French people have been placed on a sugar ration of about 18 pounds a year for domestic use; a pound and a half a month. This photograph shows how the German troops destroyed French sugar mills. Thanks to the French rationing system the annual consumption has been cut to 600,000 tons, according to reports reaching the United States Food Administration. Before the war France had an average sugar crop of about 750,000 tons of sugar and had some left over for export.

Saving Sugar Saves Shipping

UNLOADING HAWAIIAN SUGAR AT A CALIFORNIA PORT.
LOADING CANE IN HAWAII FROM WHERE AMERICA GETS HALF A MILLION TONS OF SUGAR A YEAR.

AMERICAN families would have less sugar than the people of war torn France, if we depended entirely on our home-grown sugar stocks.

Approximately 75 per cent. of our sugar is shipped to our shores. We produce about 1,000,000 tons of sugar a year. Our imports from abroad amount to over 3,000,000 tons a year in normal times.

The United States Food Administration asks each family to limit its use of sugar to two pounds per month per person for household use. The military situation demands that every available ship be placed at the disposal of the Army or Navy. When we save sugar, we save shipping.

Removes Ink Stains.

Stains caused by indelible ink on linen may with patience be made so faint as to be scarcely perceptible. First of all, moisten the stain with iodine, then use hyposulphate of soda. Next rinse in clear water and dry well, and the stain, if a new one, will often entirely disappear and even an old one will grow very faint.

War Conditions Compel Us to Raise Our Rates

It was with regret that we announced that the unprecedented increase in operating expenses finally compelled us to request permission of Council to go to the Public Service Comission asking for an increase in our rates for Gas.

This is the first time in the history of this company that rates have been increased. In this instance we have made every possible effort during the past year or more to keep rates down to their present low figure.

We have found, however, that this simply could not be done. We are no more immune to constantly increasing prices brought on by the war, than is the individual—and every citizen of Kingston knows how the price of every commodity has soared in the last twelve months.

No Other Recourse

We regret that we are forced to raise rates at this time when customers are already burdened with the high cost of living. Had the increase been voluntary on our part we would certainly have chosen a more opportune time. But the increase will fall lightly on each one of our customers.

The Need for Speed

Were the old charges to continue the company would be seriously handicapped in its operations and would very shortly find itself bankrupt. Rather than sacrifice service at a time when the governments calls for "Speed and yet more speed" in industry, it was decided that the increase in rates was the only course that could be pursued. The earlier we obtain this temporary relief the less of a burden it will be for the consumers. It is better to take care of increased costs over a slightly longer period than in a short period to pay a rate which would not only cover increased cost but also make up the losses during the period of delay.

We are seeking only a nominal return on our investment and we are confident that our customers will accept the increase in good spirit. When conditions again become normal we will assuredly readjust the schedule.

Piano Aids in Cleaning.

A Philadelphian has patented a dust-lifting attachment which will change a player piano into a vacuum cleaner. You need only to disconnect the air pipe leading from the piano bellows from the air motor. Insert the attachment on this hose, have somebody work the pedals and proceed with your parlor cleaning.—Popular Science Monthly.

Not Very Complimentary.

Milton's mother was asking each member of the family which view of the sailor hat they preferred her to keep for them. One said she would like a side view, another a front view, and, when Milton's turn came, he, thinking he ought to say something different, earnestly requested a back view.

Read to the Children.

When children read a book to themselves the words do not leave the same impression upon their minds as when they hear them read aloud. When some one reads a book to them they learn how to pronounce those words which puzzled them; and if they do not know the meaning, it is easy to ask.

TRIALS OF THE GAME PROTECTOR

With New Rifle and Uniform at Times He Proudly Goes Out on Parade—Schemes to Catch Protector Off Guard—Often He Has Opportunity to Play Detective.

Game protectors of the state who have received the new rifle are very proud of the weapon. Game Protector Frederick DeWitt of Kingston lifting one of these new rifles to show the mechanism declared that for the use for which it is intended it is superior to the old arm. "I plumped a hawk," he said. "The bird was on the wing and I shot across the Wallkill. A pretty good shot."

One hundred of these rifles were presented to as many of Conservation Commissioner George D. Pratt's men by the commissioner. There are altogether 144 men on the force. With his new rifle and the new uniform these officers make a highly presentable appearance.

The rifle is a ten shot repeating Winchester, 25 20 cartridge, which in a single action expels the empty shell, letting a loaded cartridge drop into place. It is much lighter and easier to handle, a prettier weapon than the gun they've been carrying.

Many suppose these rifles are carried for self protection. This is not the fact. Their use is confined to shooting the marauding vermin of the woods and fields, such as hawks, foxes, weasles. They are permitted only to use a side arm in defence and then only where their life is in danger. They are not required always to carry the rifle. Only when they are going into the woods where they are expected to see some of the marauding game.

The uniform is not worn at all times. It is intended to be worn only on occasions when the protectors are called into court or are to be assembled in response to a special call to Albany or at their periodical meetings.

Speaking of violations which the protector is expected to discover, Officer DeWitt gave some information which may interest those who have a fondness for game for food or are accustomed to go after it.

Ignorance of the game law, as most people know, is no defence. But the game officer is supposed to exercise judgment when a violation is brought to his attention. Game protectors may easily make themselves unpopular and that is what most of them wish to avoid. Standing on the bridge at Phoenicia the protector watches a fisherman throwing his line into the stream. He sees the angler take a trout off his hook and lay it in the open palm of his hand, then slide the trout back into the stream. That man desires to obey the law as to size of trout. That fact is made plain to the officer. He knows that the angler is not aware that he is being watched. Finally the man is seen to dip out minnows for bait with his landing net. That man has committed a violation. The protector descends to the stream and making himself known warns the fisherman who at once throws back the bait. The protector has served the one purpose for which he is appointed. The state has lost nothing by it.

Here is an opposite case. The protector learns that some one has established a yard for raising deer, ducks or pheasants. Has he obtained a license, the officer asks him. He has not. Then he is advised to do so. Some time later he finds the produce of the yard going out to other parties. Then he demands to be shown the license which cannot be done, for no license has been obtained. The game protector cannot be blamed if he concludes that there was an intentional violation.

Under a license procured at Albany one may raise deer, pheasant or mallard ducks for propagation or for food. Designated game may be raised for both exhibition or propagation if permission can be obtained from Albany by paying $1.25 a year. Five dollars a year entitles the holder of the license to sell designated game such as mallard ducks for food. The party he sells to is protected if the license has been granted the seller and the game has been tagged according to the requirement of the department, the tags put on by a representative of the department. The sale of every carcass or part of a carcass can be made only after that has been done. The purchaser knowing that it is game he is buying has the tag for evidence in case the meat is found in his possession. Otherwise he is subject to the penalty as well as the man who sells to him. Bonds are required to get the license. After game has been sold under those conditions it must be fully reported to the conservation commissioner in writing. Proof of violation, having game in possession, does not rest exclusively in finding the game there. Evidence coming through the party who has sold the game is indisputable proof, though such evidence would not be given except it was done in ignorance of the law.

The protectors are expected to report instances of the destruction of game and fish which is under the protection of the law, though to find the cause is not always possible.

A large number of speckled and brown trout were found dead floating in the Esopus last fall. Presumably from impregnation of the waters by chemicals used in pipes from which they escaped and through which the water supply for New York was cleaned. Up to that time the trout in the Esopus had that year been the most numerous ever known. This was due to largely prevailing rains for the three year period.

One of the most tiresome of the duties of protectors is saving trout in streams where the water has been considerably lowered on account of a dry season. The trout are left in pools from which they have to be removed and placed in running water.

The game protector is left to interpret the law from which an appeal may be taken to the chief of his division and after that will be considered by the Conservation Commissioner. The game law of the state is the one part of this state's statutes which lawyers and judges are not accepted as interpreters. The wise game protector will exercise common sense in his interpretation of the law. He takes it just as the law reads, giving no attention to obscure construction.

There are occasions when the protector may voluntarily assume the role of detective. In the Hudson division which includes many summer resorts patronized by thousands of strangers rare and distinguishing opportunities are afforded for the display of detective ability. One case in point. The protector happening into a railway office saw a letter addressed to a gentleman which had come from a town in New Jersey. It was during the hunting season. The name to whom the letter was addressed appeared on the register of a hotel. Inquiry brought the information that the gentleman was one of a hunting party. When confronted with a request to show his hunting license he presented one made out in his own name but it was a resident's license, such as is granted to residents of this state. His residence was given as New York city. It was not difficult to get from him the acknowledgment that his actual residence was in New Jersey. He had had his mail addressed in care of the station agent, a plain intention to violate the law and save the difference in cost between a resident's and non-resident's license.

Many little schemes are sprung to catch the protector off guard. The most common is to call his house on the 'phone. Finding him absent may give the inquirer the opportunity he is after. If perchance the protector is at home a simple inquiry is supposed to give a reasonable excuse for 'phoning him and the inquirer is then able to make his plans intelligently.

U. & D. WILL USE D. & H. TERMINAL

To Transfer Its Freight And Passenger Business at Oneonta Thursday to the Delaware & Hudson R. R. Terminal.

At midnight Thursday, August 15, 1918, the Ulster & Delaware R. R. terminal at Oneonta will be abandoned and thereafter, at least so long as the railroads are under federal control the freight and passenger business of the road will be conducted from the Delaware & Hudson R. R. freight and passenger stations in that city.

All U. & D. R. R. trains will be made up and despatched from the D. & H. yards and the engines and cars will be cared for by the D. & H. force and the terminal business handled by the D. & H. Co. The operation of the U. & D. as a railroad remains a separate unit in charge of the officials in Kingston and the train crews will remain on the U. & D. pay rolls and in no way becoming a part of the D. & H. system but employes will be required to familiarize themselves with the operating rules of the D. & H. system so they can properly operate trains in and about the yards of that company. Employes will take the D. & H. examination before Thursday morning.

By the elimination of a separate terminal of the U. & D. at Oneonta a decided economy will be effected, it being estimated it will not cost more than one-third as much to operate through the D. & H. and the change will be a great convenience to the traveling public. Undoubtedly it will result in increased business for the U. & D. The yard and roundhouse force of the U. & D. will be given employment by the D. & H. if they wish it and the station force will be employed elsewhere on the U. & D.

WOMEN DAIRY WORKERS.

Millionaire Stock-Farmer to Employ Workers of the Woman's Land Army.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—A new unit of the New York State Woman's Land Army has been organized at Pawling, Dutchess county, New York for the purpose of helping dairy farmers to harvest crops for their cattle and to aid in the care of the cows.

Paul T. Brady, millionaire stockgrower and owner of a $500,000 dairy farm at Pawling noted for its Holstein cows is employing a number of the girls in the newly organized unit.

Mr. Brady's farm covers approximately 2,000 acres and his stables house the prize bull of the world. Some months ago when the labor shortage became acute and the war took one after another of his skilled and unskilled workers Mr. Brady was introduced by a friend to two women workers from the Bedford Land Army Unit. Those girls had done some splendid farm work in the neighborhood of Pawling and Mr. Brady engaged them as an experiment.

The girls did general farm work and did it so earnestly and intelligently as to win Mr. Brady's instant approval of the movement to substitute women for men on farms. He has since appealed to the army for other girls and his demand has resulted in the establishment of the camp at Pawling. The unit is located in a farm house loaned to the New York State Woman's Land Army by a patriotic farmer, Henry Burbeck, who believes that helping the women to help save the crops is as important as buying Liberty Bonds and contributing to the Red Cross.

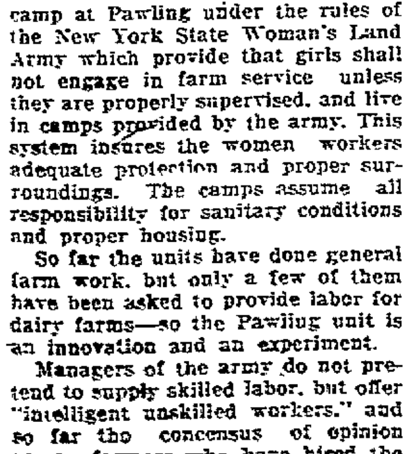
Mr. Brady has absolute faith in the ability of women as farm workers. He recently admitted that one unit girl is worth two men on his place. He has praised them for their diligence and faithfulness and for their adaptability.

It was necessary to open a new camp at Pawling under the rules of the New York State Woman's Land Army which provide that girls shall not engage in farm service unless they are properly supervised, and live in camps provided by the army. This system insures the women workers adequate protection and proper surroundings. The camps assume all responsibility for sanitary conditions and proper housing.

So far the units have done general farm work, but only a few of them have been asked to provide labor for dairy farms—so the Pawling unit is an innovation and an experiment.

Managers of the army do not pretend to supply skilled labor, but offer "intelligent unskilled workers." and so far the concensus of opinion among farmers who have hired the women is that they are extremely quick to learn and are filling the men's places efficiently.

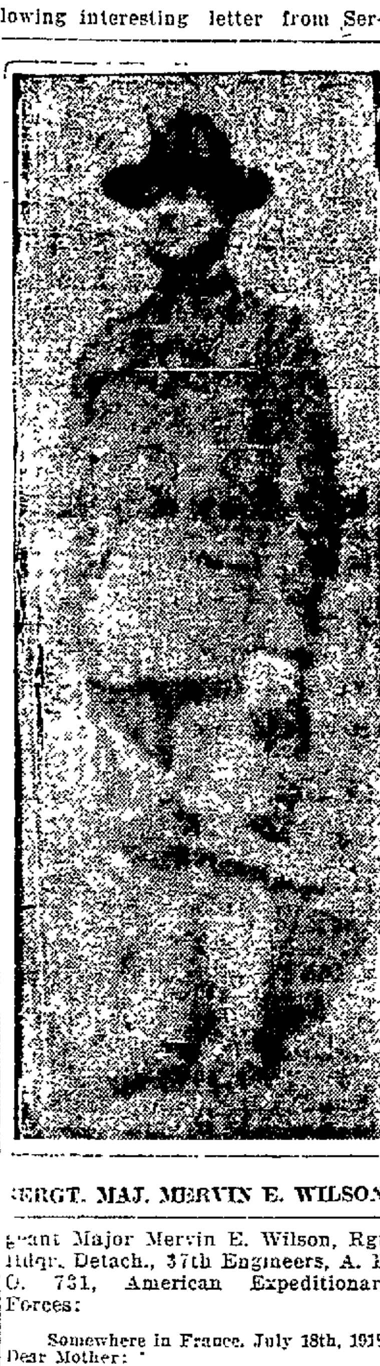
The question of supplying women on dairy farms will be an important topic of discussion at the up-state conference of the New York State Woman's Land Army to be held at the educational building, Albany, on August 20-21. At this conference Gov. Whitman will emphasize the need of a greater army to meet the agricultural demands of the state in 1919.



WILSON MISSES WATER IN FRANCE

French Drink Wine And Pay Little Attention to Municipal Water Supplies—England Looks Like a Big Flower Garden.

Mrs. George Wilson of No. 62 East Chester street has received the following interesting letter from Sergeant Major Mervin E. Wilson, Rgt. Hdqr. Detach., 37th Engineers, A. P. O. 731, American Expeditionary Forces:



SERGT. MAJ. MERVIN E. WILSON.

Somewhere in France, July 18th, 1918.

Dear Mother:

I suppose you think that this letter is a long time coming but the fact of the matter is we have been on the move the most of the time so that it has been impossible for me to write and tell you anything. I am now writing it on the typewriter because I can put more on the sheet and also make it possible for the censor to read it, for were I to write it out in long hand I am afraid that he might think that it was in French or in code. Well we have had some trip and I wish I could be there to tell you all about it for it is not possible for me to tell you everything on paper. We had a trip across the water that could not be beat for the old ocean was as calm as the old Hudson and at no time was it at all really rough and you can believe me that this did not make me at all mad for the calmer it was the better I liked it. Our colonel was the ranking officer on the boat and we naturally fell in for about all the routine work and it took about all the time that there was for to keep it up, in fact there was a couple nights that we put in most of the night. Well I have heard about the deep blue sea but as one of the boys expresses it "he never knew that there was as much water as he saw on the way over," and it seemed to be no end to it.

The trip was without any special features and I was glad that we did not meet with any of the subs for when you look out on all sides and see nothing but water and realize that the same thing is on the bottom and no place to walk the thoughts of a sub is not very comforting. Well we arrived in old England in quick time and did not stay at the port of debarkation very long, in fact we marched from the boat to the train and was again on our way. The accommodations on the boat were fine both in sleeping and eating and if I were to take the trip on my own hook I would not want anything better. We had various ways of entertaining ourselves in the way over. Some of the boys brought their musical instruments along and there was a little music at all times. The officers and nurses aboard had dances almost every day. If I could tell you the name of the boat you would recognize it in a minute and agree with me that we were very fortunate in getting the opportunity to come over on such a boat. All the boys were agreeably surprised when they saw the boat that we were to take. Well notwithstanding the fine accommodations on the boat we were all glad to get on the old dry land again and the finest excursion that I have ever taken in my life was coming to me.

Well we got aboard our first English train and they are considerably different than the American trains and I will try and take you on the trip we had through England. The trains are divided into compartments that hold 8 people and the entrance is on the side. The platforms at the stations are high enough so that you do not have to climb up any steps but step right into your compartment. There is a sort of a privacy about these little cabins that the American trains do not give and just as soon as we could get aboard the train we were on our way. In the compartment that I was in we only had 4 men and there was 2 or 3 that were left empty, so I transferred 2 of the men to one of the empty compartments so that when it was time to go to sleep we had a whole seat to stretch out on. The trip through England was a treat and I could not describe it to you. I did not believe that it was possible to make anything look so much like a great big flower garden as they have on that island and I only wish that I could take the time for to travel through it again and take time enough to see it all. Flowers and gardens on every side and the country homes and estates are more like a fairy land than anything else. The cattle and horses all looked like prize winners and it was a treat to everybody on the train. The days are the longest I have ever seen and it was light coming through England 'till nearly 10 o'clock.

Well as soon as it got dark we stretched out on the cushions and was asleep in no time but were called out in the wee hours of the morning as we had reached our first camp and had a hike of about three miles, and then back to bed again. This time there was no beds or cushions but the soft side of a board, but everybody was ready to go to sleep and in no time everybody was quiet again and the next thing we heard was the bugle announcing the fact that it was time to get up. Well we stayed at this camp 'till after dinner and marched back to town for to get on our way to France. Well everybody was glad to see the American troops. Women were doing men's work on all sides even to cleaning the cars in the railroad yards. I have seen women running street cars in France both as motorwomen and conductors and one steam engine I saw a woman acting as fireman or drawwoman which ever you want to call it. In the fields in both England and France it was a common sight to see the women working in the fields and they all seemed to look healthy and trying to do their bit to help win.

Well as soon as we were sailed on the boat and had had supper I was on the lookout for a place to spend the night and found a place below that I thought would be out of the weather and a good place to sleep and I was asleep again in no time. Right now let me say that anyone troubled with insomnia or nervousness and that cannot sleep just put them in the army for a few days and then let them have a chance to set down and I will bet that they will be off asleep in a short time. Well I had only been asleep a short time when one of the boys found me and said that I was wanted by the adjutant and so I looked him up and he advised that there was a stateroom that was vacant and that the colonel of our regiment, who was in charge of the boat, said that I could have it and take any other men in that I wanted to. Well I got the steward busy at once and got the place fixed for one of the boys and myself. I was asleep again in a few minutes and the next thing that I knew was when one of the boys called me in the morning and advised that we were getting ready to land in France.

Got the boys all together and ready to get off and again we took a hike of about three miles to a camp and remained there for a couple days when we again got on our way and then came the experience of the trip. I have often seen moving pictures of the manner in which they moved troops over here but did not pay very much attention to the cars but I know now that they were not exaggerated. Well the cars that we had on our next trip of several days was similar to our box cars and the seats are arranged as a bench along the sides and there is a double seat down the center of the car where the ones in the car set back to back. The cars are supposed to hold 40 men but we were again fortunate as they only required us to put 21 men in the car. Well we had some trip for now we began to travel real army style and live on the real army rations of canned meats, cheese, jam and biscuits. Well right now when I say biscuits I don't want you to get any wrong impression as to what I mean by biscuits. They are called biscuits but they are something like they used to call hardtack but they are a little better flavored. Well everybody got along all O. K. and nobody that I know of was sick or felt any ill effects from the trip unless it was from the sleeping on the soft side of the car floor. Well on the way over on the boat some of the boys found fault with some of the things that they got and the things that they had to do and then I told them that there would be times later, that the things that they got on the ship would be nothing compared to the things that they would get later and since that they have acknowledged that it was the truth but they are all taking it now as it comes and getting along fine.

Well we had some trip riding across the country and I have seen Paris and many other cities on our travels through France. While we did not stop very long at any place neither did we go very fast through the place we passed and all had a good chance to see the country. In England I saw quite a few cities that I never expected to see and enjoyed the trip more than I can say. In Liverpool the houses all seemed to look alike when you looked over the city at the house tops and you would imagine that they had all been made in a mold and of the same pattern. We passed through Birmingham, Oxford and many other notable places that I never expected to have the opportunity of visiting but our stops were not long enough for to see very much of the place. I have heard so much of Oxford College that I would have liked to have spent a little time there and visited the college grounds for a while at least but maybe there will be another time when we can stay longer and see more of the sights. When we finally reached our destination or at least the place that we expect to spend a little time at least everybody was glad to get out on the ground and stretch and the little French village looked considerably different than I expected to see. It is old, yes very old, and there is always some one to see the funny side of everything. One of the boys says that he asked how old some of the buildings were and he says that they told him that the modern buildings were 2,000 years old and there was no telling how old the oldest ones were.

We are comfortably quartered now. The other boys in the headquarter detachment have a big wooden barracks and we are now fixed up with our own mess and getting along fine. I am located in town and have a nice room. Not very many conveniences but I am getting busy and in a short time expect to fix it up in good shape, and be very comfortably fixed. The streets or rather the roadbeds are the best thing that they have here. There is no such thing as a street line for the houses and I guess that they laid the streets out after a snow storm and picked out the lanes that the cows had made walking around. In some places the sidewalks are not over 2 feet wide and in other places they will be from 6 to 8 feet. The streets are narrow and the stores are not very much like the American stores. The thing that I miss the most is good water and that is something that they do not pay much attention to in Franc for they say that all water is bad and that you should drink wine, but I prefer the water and we are arranging to fix up one of the bags that government furnishes for to supply the good healthy drinking water. I can consume about a gallon of that a day and must have it so some means will be devised to get it.

Everybody here drinks wine and beer but it is not the wine and beer that is sold as a rule in the states. The wine is weaker and the French people drink it as we do water and for that reason they have not paid as much attention to the water supply as the cities do in the states. Everybody here from the states is trying to learn French and some of the boys have learned quite a little. Some of the boys that you meet on the street have two gold chevrons on their arms which indicates that they have been over here a year already. You get a gold chevron for every 6 months.

About every man in France is a soldier if he is over 16 and under 50 and the women are doing all kinds of work. On the hill where we are quartered we have a view that covers miles and it is one of the prettiest sights that I have ever seen, and I have often wondered since I arrived in England what this country would really look like if all the men that are at the front fighting were home to help do the work and if the country would look any better. It hardly seems possible that it could but on the other hand it indicates that there has been considerable hard work necessary for to keep the country in such good condition. The cities are the ones that I believe feel it the most for people are not buying anything but what they have to have and that is mostly things to wear and to eat. Eats are distributed mostly by cards and for to buy bread or many other things to eat you must have a card and then you can only get a certain amount at a time. It is necessary to learn to count the French money for there is a considerable difference in the value of that and ours. We get paid off in French money and I know that because we were paid off yesterday for last month.

I have not received any mail since I started but neither have any of the boys as yet but no doubt they will begin to arrive in a few days. From what I can figure out it takes a letter about a month to get over here and you will see when you receive this how long it takes to come the other way. I kept putting off having the pictures made 'till the last minute so was not able to get them made and sent to you before I left, but you no doubt have received them by now. I believe that there were 3 to be sent to you. One for Tillie and one for Jack. I did not even get a chance to see how they turned out. Were they good? I left cards for you to be mailed that I had arrived safely, did you get them? The move was a surprise notwithstanding the fact that I knew that it was coming sooner or later, but we had had several scares and I was not expecting it for a while. When it did come it left so little time for to get away that everything seemed impossible but everybody got busy and when the time came for to march out everybody that was expected to go was in line.

Well I guess I have given you nearly all the news in my first letter or at least all that I can think of at this time, so will say goodnight.

With love to all,

LOCATING TIMBER.

Town Supervisors to Aid In Securing Supply For War Needs.

Albany, Aug. 14.—Timber for war purposes, to be taken from the forests and wood-lots of New York state, is being located by the Division of Lands and Forests of the Conservation Commission, in co-operation with the U. S. Forest Service, the Society of American Foresters, and the supervisors of every town in the state. Following the location of available supplies, which is being done by a preliminary census of the standing timber in the state, detailed plans will be made to meet the pressing demands of the government.

Every town supervisor in the state has received from the Conservation Commission a letter requesting him to furnish the commission with the names of all owners of at least fifty acres of woodland in his town. To the owners the commission then sends a form for use in listing all varieties of timber, showing the number of board feet of merchantable saw-logs and the cords of wood not fit for saw logs. Questions as to nearest shipping point and possession of a saw-mill are also asked.

A letter accompanying this form states that "the government needs white ash and spruce for aeroplanes, black walnut and black cherry for aeroplane propellers and gun stocks, and hemlock and chestnut for tanning. Yellow birch is a substitute for walnut and is important, oak is required for ship-building purposes and aeroplane construction, and locust is needed for tree-nails used in ship-building. It is impossible to forecast uses of other species, and we therefore ask that you make your report as complete as possible. The use of wood as a substitute for coal for fuel was deeply impressed on the people last year, and probably will be more urgent the coming winter season. Therefore your report as to the amount and availability of cordwood is important."

FEDERAL REGULATIONS.

Relative to Food Containers and Their Labels.

Commissioner of Agriculture Charles S. Wilson states that shippers of food in containers must keep in mind the new regulations of the Federal government which require in interstate commerce that food in package form shall be deemed misbranded if the quantity of the contents is not marked on the outside of the package in terms of weight, measure and numerical count.

Commissioner Wilson stated that shippers are required by the Federal regulations to see that bags, crates, boxes, hampers and packages of other kinds bear a conspicuous statement of the quantity of food in the package before it is shipped.

Detailed information and regulatory announcements may be found in Circular 21 of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

It was stated by Commissioner Wilson that shipments of apples and pears within the state of New York in standard barrels do not need to be marked with the contents as is required by the Federal law.

There were only two arrests made on Tuesday. The first was Charles Slater, who was picked up on the Strand, near Hasbrouck avenue, by Officer Healey too drunk to help himself. This morning he was given another chance by Judge Schirick.

37 STAR SERVICE FLAG UNFURLED

[illegible]gston Shipbuilding Plant on [illegible]d Dock—Joseph M. Fowler [illegible]ives Address And Miss Catherine Brayton Unfurled Flag—Those in Service.

Brief but impressive services were held at noon today at the plant of the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation on the Island Dock when a service flag with thirty-seven stars was unfurled. The flag was unfurled by little Miss Catherine Brayton, 10 years old, a daughter of Henry Brayton, one of the foremen on the yard, who has three sons in the service, Robert, Francis and Harry. The address was delivered by Joseph M. Fowler.

The big service flag was unfurled at a spot near where the three big ships are under construction. Promptly at 11:45 o'clock the big whistle blew summoning the men from all parts of the yard who hurried to the scene and in a very short time the six hundred men employed on the yard were gathered around the speaker's platform.

In a few well chosen words John D. Schoonmaker, president of the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation, stated what the meeting was held for and what it represented, and then introduced Mr. Fowler, who at the opening of his address stated that he was saddened this morning to learn of the death of an old comrade, "Jack" Jerson, somewhere in France "Jack" Jerson served with Mr. Fowler back in 1898 during the war with Spain when both were members of Company M in Honolulu. Mr. Fowler paid a high tribute to the memory of Mr. Jerson and said that he was one of the highest type of man, a true American. He called attention to what the service flag stood for, of the sacrifice that had been made by the men represented by the stars on the flag. This was the day when our country was calling upon every true American to help win the war. The men who stayed at home at work upon the shipyards where the ships were built to carry provisions and men across to France, the men in the munition plants and every man engaged in a useful work was doing his share to win the war. This was no time to falter and hesitate but to press onward for victory was in sight. Mr Fowler paid a high tribute to our flag and briefly and impressively told what it stood for. In closing he read a list of the names of the men now in the service and for whom the flag was unfurled.

At the close of the ceremonies Miss Brayton was presented with a magnificent bouquet of rose buds.

BERRIES

For dewberries, blackberries, loganberries, huckleberries, raspberries and currants practically the same methods of canning may be used. The condition of the fruit will have much to do with the quality of the product. Berries should be gathered in shallow trays or baskets and not in deep vessels which allow them to be bruised and crushed. They should be uniformly ripe, sound, and as large as possible.

After the berries have been sorted carefully and washed lightly by placing in a colander and pouring water over them, instead of immersing them in water, pack as closely as possible without crushing. This can be done better by putting a few berries into the jar, pressing them gently into place, and proceeding layer by layer, than by nearly filling the jar loosely and then trying to press them down.

Fill jars full of fruit and cover with hot sirup. Boiling berry juice or other sirups can be used instead of sugar sirup. Partially seal jars. Boil (process) pints ten minutes and quarts twelve minutes. Seal. When cold test for leaks and store in cool, dark, dry place.

The use of a sugar sirup, made by boiling three pounds and nine ounces of sugar to one gallon of water and straining, adds to the flavor of the canned berries. The use of berry juice expressed from extra berries instead of water in making the sirup will give a richer color and flavor.—United States Department of Agriculture.

LIQUOR SALES TO THE DRAFTED MEN

Are Prohibited—There is a Heavy Penalty for Violating This Law—Warning to Liquor Dealers.

Local boards for Divisions 1 and 2 of Ulster county received a bulletin today from the adjutant general's office, calling attention to the provision of the selective service law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors to any man in the military service of this country This applies to the drafted men as well as the regular army men.

Liquor dealers have been warned from time to time and in some cities a number of arrests have been made. The rule prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors applies to the men in the naval service also.

A bulletin sent out by the adjutant general is as follows:

The sale of intoxicating liquor, including beer, ale and wine, to a man in the military service, which includes a drafted man, is forbidden under the provisions of the selective service law.

Any person, firm, corporation or association making such sale is liable on conviction, unless other punishment is prescribed by the articles of war, to a fine of $1,000, or imprisonment for twelve months, or both.

Under section 157 of the selective service regulations, from and after the date and hour specified in the induction notice served by the local board on the selected man, he "shall be in the military service of the United States."

Mrs Augustus Hotaling, who has been the guest of relatives in Catskill, has returned to her home on Salem street.

Clyde Lefever of New York city spent the week end at his home on Broadway.

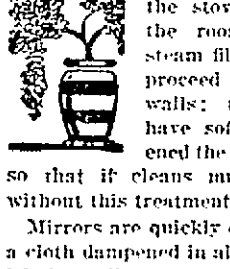
Mrs. Antha Sherman of Groton, N. Y., and Mrs Charles Neice of Main street were guests of Mrs. Etta Lowe on Schryver street Monday.

Oscar Lefever, navy warrant officer, spent the week end at his home on Broadway.

Some of your hurts you have cured.
And the sharpest you still have survived,
But what torments of grief you endured
From the evils which never arrived.

CLEANING HINTS.

Before cleaning a room with painted walls, if possible choose a damp or rainy day. Then place a large pan of water on the stove to boil, close the room and let the steam fill the room, then proceed to clean the walls; the steam will have softened and loosened the dust on the walls so that it cleans much easier than without this treatment.



Mirrors are quickly cleaned by using a cloth dampened in alcohol. The polish is easily put on, but care should be taken not to rub a varnished frame with an alcohol cloth.

When cleaning hardwood floors a mop or cloth dipped in oil is much better to use than one dampened with water. All spots may be washed if necessary and the oil rubbed out of it; this brings back the polish.

Old pieces of outing flannel make fine cleaning cloths; it is soft and easily wrung dry.

A cheap floor wax may be made by melting a pound of beeswax and mixing it with three pints of turpentine. Melt the wax cut in small pieces over hot water.

Melted paraffin wax mixed with turpentine makes a fine mixture for dust cloths; dip the cloth into the mixture, wring out, and it is ready to use for several months.

A little paraffin used on the kitchen range keeps it looking much better than any other treatment. This is a good dressing to give stoves left during a season (unused), as it prevents rust.

Clean paint brushes by soaking them in vinegar (hot), then wash in soap suds and they may be put away soft and clean.

Muriatic acid will dissolve the lime in the teakettle, and the deposit of iron in the sink and the toilet; use it on a swab in the porcelain-lined vessels, and be sure not to leave it too long or it will dissolve the enamel itself. If used in the teakettle, great care should be used to boil it out with fresh water before using again, as the acid is poisonous.

Before working in the garden fill the nails with soap, then there will be less manicuring to be done after the work is over.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

"It does seem queer, that over here about the heat we kick and yell; when over there, 'neath skies so fair, our boys get their first real glimpse of ——," hummed the City Hall Poet.

"You mustn't say that naughty word," interrupted the City Hall Oracle.

"And now our own aldermen are getting a taste of a gas attack," commented a visitor at the city hall this morning, "and consumers only hope it won't result in their being gassed."

One of the principal topics of conversation among the members of the police force Tuesday night aside from the gas question was the feat of Policeman Edwin Shader, who walked to Poughkeepsie that day in 2 hours and 15 minutes. According to talk in police circles Officer Shader caught the first ferry to Rhinecliff that morning and from there walked to Poughkeepsie. It had been wagered that he could not perform the feat in 2 hours and 20 minutes and he lowered that by 5 minutes.

The assessment roll has now been on review since the first of the month and will be open until Grievence Day, which is fixed by the city charter as August 20. All taxpayers should view their assessment as soon as possible, so as to be able to lodge a written complaint with the city assessor if they believe they have been over assessed.

BRITISH FREIGHTER BATTLES U-BOAT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 14.—A bitter fight—lasting nearly three hours—followed by a chase in which a British freighter eluded a German submarine and a vessel believed to have been the mother ship of the U-boats in American waters was related here this afternoon, by members of the crew of the freighter, which reached here safely.

The gun duel took place 45 miles off Fire Island. Half a dozen torpedoes were fired at the freighter, most of which were exploded by gun fire from the vessel before they struck the ship. The freighter's exceptional speed saved her, the crew declared.

Use of hall donated by Knights of Pythias; electric lights by Charles Stokes; cake by members of Kerhonkson Red Cross.

This amount was turned into the Ellenville Chapter, exceeding last year's receipts by $165.

The entertainment was a great success, the only drawback being the fact that the hall was not large enough to accommodate all who wanted to come, the tickets all having been disposed of by the morning of the affair. The young folks are to be commended on their untiring zeal in disposing of the tickets. The play was certainly most thrilling, as the title (The Hand of the Spy) would indicate, and was performed as if all were professionals., Miss Myers, as a clown, kept the people laughing continually and many were puzzled as to whether it was Miss or Mr. Myers. Frederick Foord deserves a great deal of credit for having planned the evening's entertainment besides seeing to the stage decorations.

These were exceedingly pretty and out of the ordinary, being assisted in the work by his mother, Mrs. Andrew Foord, and Mr. Gardner, who by the way, was the author of the play given that evening, also one of the actors. Mr. Foord was fine in his darkey songs, "Regretful Blues" and "N' Everything." Miss Lita Hanker, accompanist. The aeroplane act was very good indeed, the building of the plane entailing a great deal of time alone, and the song, "Going up," sung by Mr. Foord with the motions by the whole company and girls corus, was very pretty and effective, especially in the encore when all threw confetti and serpentinas over the audience, the climax came when the hall was darkened and you could see an aeroplane sailing away as if in the darkness of night. Mr. Foord's other act and song, "The Cocktail of Flowers," was equally as good. The first verse had words composed to bring in vegetables of which there were five: beet (Olive Quick); cabbage (Marie Germer); turnip (Lucy Van Etten); carrot (Abigail Stokes); corn (Ruth Green); after which came the flowers: Blue Bell (Sylvina Black); Daisy (Mabel Germer); Moss Rose (Nellie Atkins); Tulip (Lita Hanker); Poppy (Mildred Anderson), each coming as her name was mentioned in the chorus, dressed in crepe paper dresses to represent the vegetable or flower, and last of all came the American Beauty rose (Mrs. Emil Foord) draped in an American flag, to which all the others paid homage, the effect was very pretty. Messrs. Flackiger and Germer were also very good in their song, with steps and motions, "Knocking at the Knitting Club," the ten girls in the above song taking the parts of the dancers and knitters, or knockers. A trio by three ladies, Mrs. Huniston, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Fuller, was also greatly appreciated. The members of the Kerhonkson Red Cross wish to express their appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Foord and their guests, who, so generously helped and gave to make this such a complete success.

Report of work for month of July: 25 pairs pajamas; 8 suits underwear; 20 triangular bandages; 1 sweater, 48 pairs socks; $5.00 membership; $38.00, ball game at Dr. Foord's and $2.00 donation.

Owing to the serious illness of a resident near McVey's Field, it has been decided to hold all ball games in the Twilight League at Athletic Field until further notice. The first game at Athletic Field will be played this evening, when the U. & D. Shops will clash with the Holy Name Society. The game is slated for 7 o'clock and the public is invited.

It is understood that the Kingston Shipbuilding team has dropped out of the league and their place will be taken by an independent team to be known as the Rondouts, with Harry Joy as manager and W. Westfall as captain. The Rondouts will play their first league game Friday evening at Athletic Field, when they will clash with The Freeman.

Rochester Town Fair.

One of the interesting features of the Rochester town fair, to be held at Accord in the Millhook Grove on August 28, will be an exhibit of home canning, home baking, needle work and diary products. All baking must be made with as little sugar and wheat flour as possible and along strictly conservation lines. Needle work not only includes fancy work but patching, darning, button holes, knitting and remodelling of clothes. Committees to supply further detailed information on all of these subjects will be announced in a few days. These exhibits are open not only to residents of the town of Rochester but all others are also invited to make entries. Prizes will be awarded to each class.

Did Not Want To Be Misled.

Alderman Schick said that he was there and did not want to be misled by a remark made by Mr. Merritt, who said that the city of Kingston is paying more for its gas than any other city in the state, and if that was so he would like to know it.

Mr. Merritt explained that it was not what you pay for an article but do you get the quality you pay for. He said that Kingston was paying $47,000 for its street lighting. At least he thought that was the figure.

"No it is $44,000" interjected Alderman Schick.

Mr. Merritt continued, stating that if the aldermen passed a resolution approving the company's request for an increase the company would go to the public service commission with a good deal more power than they would otherwise. "What right has this board of aldermen to abrogate this contract?" asked Mr. Merritt.

He said it was not fair to ask the common council to put itself on record. If the gas company made a bad bargain when they contracted to supply gas for $1.15 they should abide by it.

"If they go into bankruptcy some lawyer will get a job, but it won't be me," added Mr. Merritt. (Laughter.)

"It's cheaper than coal" interrupted Alderman Schick.

"Why make it as dear" countered Mr. Merritt quickly.

Mr. Merritt closed with the plea, "Don't get wheedled into granting this petition.

Ex-Mayor Brinnier Protests.

Ex-Mayor William D. Brianier was given the privilege of the floor and stated that he appeared as an individual taxpayer and not in an official capacity. He said that he knew the aldermen wanted to do what was right. "In 1912 I think an agreement was made to furnish gas to the consumer for $1.15" he continued "and you don't think that the corporation did not know what it was doing then. He said that at that time under a former administration the company had foisted on the city a contract involving $44,000 to light the city streets. "Are they asking to reduce this contract?" asked Mr. Brinnier.

Across Broadway in front of their office they have a banner strung which reads, "Use Gas and Save Coal." Suppose there was a decrease in the cost of manufacturing gas do you think the company would petition this common council for permission to reduce the price. Never.

"Why don't they send this contract for $44,000 or ask to have it sent to the public service commission"? asked the speaker.

Mr. Brinnier reminded the aldermen that they were elected to do good for the greatest number. "Is it your duty to allow them to increase the gas rate?"

He reminded the common council that the gas company was not asking for an increase in the electric rates for they are getting enough, he said. He closed with stating that he thought the aldermen would be remiss in their duty if they allowed the gas company to repudiate their contract.

Alderman Preston Neutral.

Alderman Preston of the First ward said that he would like to be neutral in the matter and would like to hear a few words from the other side. He called attention to the fact that he was a large user of gas at his home and that the increase if granted would hit him more than many others.

"We had a cold winter," remarked Alderman Preston, "and I would like to ask Mr. Merritt why he raised the price of ice."

"I can answer that easily," replied Mr. Merritt, "I did not raise it."

"Why did the other dealers then?" asked Alderman Preston.

"You will have to ask them that?" replied Mr. Merritt.

Alderman Preston then went on to say that the price of wood had advanced in price but the trees were not growing smaller and there was plenty of wood in the vicinity, but still he had to pay more. He said, "I would like to ask the gas company—"

"There may be some others present who want to protest," interrupted Alderman Schick, "let us hear them first."

President Watts rapped for order and ruled that Alderman Preston had the floor

Alderman Preston continued, "I would like to ask the gas company what other cities are paying for their gas."

Assistant Manager Stull Replied.

Assistant Manager C. Rodman Stull of the gas company, was the next speaker. He defended the action of the gas company in asking for an increase on the grounds that the company was under bigger expense and was manufacturing gas at a loss. In replying to Attorney Auchmoody he said that the company was able and willing to produce proof that it was manufacturing gas at a loss, and he believed that the company's figures would show that fact.

In replying to Mr. Merritt's remark that they had submitted figures showing the cost of manufacturing gas in the most expensive months—those of the winter—he wanted to state that in some respects the winter months are the most expensive and some not. He called attention to the fact that the highest cost of manufacturing gas in the figures given the common council were those of the last month mentioned and in that month there had been no freezing weather.

He said the company regretted the necessity of making application at this time. It had never done so before. "We don't come here with any idea of profiteering," said Mr. Stull, "we come with a straight business proposition."

He said that electric rates do not enter into the question. The company did not desire any increase in electric rates and only asked for relief where it was needed.

As far as the quality of the gas was concerned it is regulated by the public service commission and is the same as that furnished throughout the state. He said that the public service commission laid down certain standards of quality which had to be met. Their inspectors drop in at any time to make a test. "They may be here tomorrow or the next day or next week, we have no idea when they come, and they may make a test out in the street or at the plant." This test is reported to the public service commission and the company has to abide by its rulings.

"We know our gas is the equal of any city in the state," said Mr. Stull. "We are giving you gas up to the quality required by the public service commission," he added.

As far as the contract with the electric company he personally had no knowledge of it except by hearsay.

He said that the gas company was, he thought, the largest taxpeyer in the city and had as many rights as any other taxpayer, "and we have no idea of profiteering in mind when we ask for an increase in gas rates."

He said that the company was not earning its bond interest and until a corporation does it was not a paying proposition. Speaking of the 7 per cent bonds alluded to by the Taxpayers' Association he said that the gas company was in the hands of a holding company and it was the bonds of this parent company that had been offered for sale. "We regret that the parent company," said Mr. Stull, "have to pay 7 per cent interest, but it has to secure money to carry on improvements."

Alderman Schilp Moves.

It was at this point that Alderman Schilp when Mr. Stull sat down moved that as the meeting was growing lengthy and the weather was warm that an adjournment be had for one week to hold another public meeting.

Alderman Schick objected and said the public had been invited and should be given the privilege of being heard at this time.

The motion was put to a vote on Alderman Schilp's call for a roll call and resulted in Aldermen Preston, Roosa, Schilp, Mann and Higgins voting for an adjournment and Aldermen Schick, Kelly, Kullmann and Hull voting "no."

The motion was declared carried by President Watts and the session adjourned until next Tuesday evening.

Pageant Rehearsals.

There has been a change in the time of holding rehearsals for the pageant "Over Here," to be given August 29 at Forsyth Park. Rehearsals will be held at Forsyth Park on Friday afternoon instead of Thursday and at McVey's Field on Thursday instead of Friday afternoon.

Lawn Social at West Shokan.

The Red Cross workers of the community, a branch of the Phoenicia Chapter, will have a social on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Palen, on Friday night, August 16. Ice cream, cake, soft drinks will be on sale. Come and help us make this a success for to benefit the boys in service. They are giving their all, many their lives. What are you doing? If stormy on Friday night it will be on Saturday night, August 17.

Take a deep drag —what tobacco do you taste?

That smooth, rich fragrance is the sure sign of Turkish. That satisfying "pep" is American. When you get them both, you've got a real cigarette.

No one tobacco grown can give you such a cigarette. That's why, to get the Mecca flavor, they have to select 12 tobaccos, 7 American and 5 Turkish. They mix these 12 tobaccos and then for fifty hours pass moist heat through them all. This is the famous Still-Blend process.

Only in this way can they draw that smooth, rich fragrance of the Turkish leaf into the American, and that satisfying "pep" of the American into the Turkish.

Only in this way can they produce that flavor which has made Mecca the favorite cigarette of over a million smokers.
